NFT art from Search Engine Results Conceptual Idea

Possible use of an NFT art can be thought as trading “search engine results NFT art” and enabling searchers to use the site for entertainment use and fun.

The “search engine results NFT art” that is generated by this system can be retro thin line computer graphics art you saw in old Windows screensaver, to varieties of cartoon characters to make the “search engine results NFT art” that is custom and original based and made from a hash function output.

The whole search engine experience can be now thought of as an investment opportunity as well as a gamified search engine. Limited editions of certain cartoon characters can be made to make collectors happy. Targeting collectors by making limited editions of NFT to a low count should make the rareness high, and therefore future value high as well.
